JOB PURPOSE

At Charter Arts, we know that relationships come before content. Students are more likely to learn when they are positively engaged in class and have a positive relationship with teachers and peers. Teachers are expected to create safe spaces where students feel comfortable sharing their voices, as equity, diversity, inclusion, and accessibility are organizational imperatives. Therefore, a teacher's purpose and responsibility is to plan for and facilitate community-building within their classrooms, create collaborative and arts-integrated curriculum and learning experiences, and challenge student thinking in new and innovative ways while aligning instruction to state core and artistic standards. Further, a teacher's job is to ensure learning occurs by assessing, monitoring, intervening, and supporting students' individual growth and mastery. Teachers must meet their students' needs academically, socially, and emotionally. They are expected to be reflective practitioners, always striving to improve their instruction, classroom experience and contribute to Charter Arts' vision and mission.
